

Boilermakers' Union Holds an Election

At a regular meeting of the Boilermakers' union, last evening, officers for the coming year were selected. The meeting was largely attended. Those elected were E. A. Gunn, president; Claus Gurman, vice president; B. C. Cradd, recording secretary; J. G. Gunn, financial secretary; S. A. Ackley, corresponding secretary; P. K. Smith, treasurer; D. C. Critchlow and H. Schelly, guards; C. L. Puter and W. E. Keating, inspectors; Rich Porter and Ed White, trustees.

Narrow Escape for Geo. Ames

George Ames, an employee of the G. A. Lowe company, narrowly escaped death yesterday. The presence of mind of Ralph Webster was all that saved the life of Ames.

The accident happened when Ames opened the door to the elevator shaft at the third floor and peered down. The elevator struck him on the head, fracturing his jaw bone, and knocking several teeth loose. He was immediately rushed to the hospital. His injuries, while painful, are not serious, it is reported.
